Your courage and belief in yourself will be tested many, many times in your life. How you will react is up to you. Do you believe in yourself? Have you been able to overcome adversity before? Do you have the necessary tools to help you through the difficulty?

If you answered yes, then you have it in you to do it over and over again – each time you get knocked down. Most of us have been knocked hard, more than once, more than twice. With the proper tools, we didn't let it wreck our life or our image of ourselves. We thought, "Okay, there is some lesson here I need to learn", and moved forward again.

We were the lucky ones. We had that belief that we could do anything; be anything, and go anywhere we wanted and had the tools ready when we needed them. We weren't afraid of the unknown – we knew that sometimes we'd falter, but that's how we learned.

For those who couldn't pick themselves back up – there's hope. You can do it too – it will take time, commitment, action and determination. You will need to surround yourself with tools that can help you break through your barriers. Like a mechanic, we all need tools to help us refine their skills for dealing with disappointment, hurt, anger and grief.

Tools can come in many forms – written material, recorded material, images, and of course, people. You will have to try many, usually, before you find the right combination. But once you do, look out! All of a sudden the light bulb will go off in your head and you will think, "I get it, I understand what I have to do to move forward".

Do something nice for yourself today – take a minute to reflect on what you want to happen and then start looking for the tools that will help you complete your plan.

Respected Principal

Education is about awakening –Awakening to the power and beauty that lies within all of us.

To my mind education as an idea, is not just about bricks ,mortar and concrete , but about building character , enriching minds and about varied experiences that last a lifetime.

To become a good citizen the most significant trait that a student must possess is Discipline. It is the word that implies a great meaning in everyone's life. It is a set of standard rules that is set up by scholarly individuals. It is a way of being honest, hard-working, motivated & encouraged throughout the life.

Discipline is an important behavior in life. It is a character trait which is crucial for expressing many other attributes in life. It refers to orderliness in life, which is essential for success in one's life.

Additionally, it demonstrates respect to physical and moral laws in society.

We all know that students are the future assets of the nation .

Discipline lays a good foundation of being selective, independent, punctual, focused, encouraged & organized in life. Self-discipline is very important that lies in inhibiting our headlong desires and passions.

It can be well understood by citing an example: –

A team of experienced players often lose the match because of a lack of discipline in the team, but a disciplined team can win an impossible Match.

It is rightly said that, “Life without discipline is just like a ship without radar”.

Respected Vice Principal

A long, long time ago somewhere in India a young monk was out walking. As he was passing through a forest he heard a rustling in the distance then a roar... - In those days wild animals like lions and tigers were a lot less scarce than they are now!! He started to run...

He ran and he ran but the roar got louder and louder. He ran clear out of the forest and into the open. Looking behind him he saw not one, but two of the biggest tigers ever!! They were catching him up!!

Suddenly he realized he had come to a dead end; the edge of a cliff. Looking around he saw a vine growing and quickly grabbed it, lowering himself down the cliff-face. Below him he heard a river, but...looking closer... he saw crocodiles everywhere! It seemed he was doomed. Also, to make matters even worse there was now a tiny mouse gnawing at the vine...

It is said that at this very moment, the young monk noticed a small fruit growing beside him; he carefully picked it and ate it... With this simple act he became enlightened. The story goes that this was the most blissful moment, the most defining moment of his whole life. Why???

This little story is ancient and has many versions and even more interpretations. I think that as the monk was in such danger, in such desperation, possibly just about to die...his mind just stopped. His thinking just stopped. With this he found himself, probably for the first time in his life, in the paradise of the present moment --- The holy "Here'n'Now".

They say in the East that eternity can only be found in the here and now and to discover this is to become enlightened. I like to think that with this simple little act the monk had a glimpse of the timeless. He touched God.

In short, he found everything he'd ever been searching for. ...and after an experience like that, what happened to him would hardly have mattered!!

Affirmation of the day :

I am myself with the family of life.

A BEAUTIFUL GIRL

It appeared a day ago, and thus,

A person like me came into existence.

It was a healthy, pleasant day with the sun upright, the wind blowing with the news held tight.

The news that I had sobbed for the first time; everyone appeared to be happy, but a man was upset;

That man wasn't an alien but my father, standing dull. How can someone resist seeing this beautiful girl?

I was curious as to why, so I listened to everything he said in his head.

His heart was contented and his senses were joyful, but a single lonely thought was choking him.

He was aspiring to give me all the pleasures of the world, but soon that thought made him remember, "Sorry, that's a girl!".

He feared that a girl in this world couldn't breathe freely in a world where the innocent are executed and the rapists move free.

Where women are objectified on the basis of their shape, and if one fights for justice, stories are baked.

Looking at the situation through my father's eyes, I am scared in this beautiful setting.

I just prayed to God that if this remains, I don't want to stay here nor should my family be sustained.

SUNDAY - NOT A DAY OF FUN, A DAY OF SUCCESS

For an ambitious student, Sunday is the most important day of the week.

Even though it's attractive on a Sunday morning to wake up late and to be with your old friend the TV, you really must resist.

Why? Because Sunday sets the tone for the week that follows,

This is absolutely true. If you attack the day on Sunday, you will start your week with momentum behind you. If you let the day attack you, your whole week will pass without doing anything superb. So how do you overcome this indolence?

The secret is to engage in a focus ritual every Sunday morning—something that wakes up your mind and gets your day moving. Read the paper with a strong cup of hot milk, take a walk with a friend,

For an ambitious student, Sunday is the most important day of the week. go for a jog followed by a hot shower, or spend some time in a nearby library. Then, with your energy, and

With your strong focus, settle into a quiet spot at the library and start working. While other students drowse, you will have a full, undisturbed day to get ahead of your work obligations.

This weekend ritual will also help you make that vital mental switch from to concentrate on weekend amusement When you party on Sunday night, Monday morning is all the more depressing. The satisfaction you'll get from starting the week in full command of your responsibilities will provide a good mood and momentum.

If you take control of your Sunday, you take control of of your week.

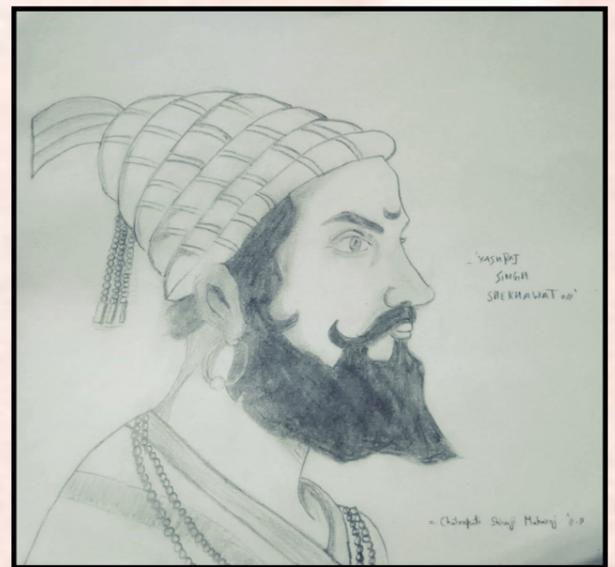

Sunday is not a day of fun; it is a day of success.

ENDURANCE

“The power to withstand something challenging”.

My dear children,

Life is not always a piece of cake. Some days of our life are quite favourable; the other days may be struggling. As an educator, what I have noticed in young children that they give up too early. Always remember, the people who have this special quality “endurance” are always the contended ones.” Ultimate triumph belongs to those who can forbear”.

- Some points to remember in life:
- Learn to wait,
- have patience,
- analyse the situation and
- act accordingly.
- Make meditation your routine,
- introspect yourself,
- know your own lacunas,
- work on them to improve and
- Achieve your goal.

Do you know children?

Patience reduces stress levels and makes you a happier and healthier person. It even helps a person to make choices that are rational instead of emotional.

Dear Youth, the future of our country is in your hands so choose wisely, work hard, pay gratitude and have patience with whatever you do in your life. Wish you success!!

God bless you all

Bullying occurs when one or more persons intimidate, abuse, or dominate another person. This is possible. Bullying occurs when one or more persons intimidate, abuse, or dominate another person. This might happen at school, the office, on the street, or at home. Some people's behaviour is habitual, and they repeat it over and over. Bullying is quite widespread among school-aged youngsters. Bullying may be verbal, in which youngsters mock others, call them names, and spread rumours about them. It can be physical, such as hitting others or destroying their property. It can also happen over the phone or internet when someone uses foul language or sends inappropriate images or texts. Bullying also includes intentionally making someone feel alone.

Happy Parents

Hi, I am Asha Sharma, mother of Kritika Sharma(9-E) and Devansh Sharma(2-C). My daughter was admitted to MPS International in grade 2. In the secure environment the school provided ,she became a more confident and happy young student. The teachers were always available and genuinely committed to exploiting her potential to the fullest. They were also very open to parental feedback and made sincere efforts to implement recommendations to the extent possible. The family-like atmosphere meant that students were not just another number and everyone knew each other. The values, good manners, and discipline that the school emphasizes are an added bonus. My son was admitted to grade 1, and he is enjoying going to school. Most importantly, my child is extremely happy during his time in school. I consider myself extremely fortunate that my children attend MPS INTERNATIONAL.

Hello, Myself Poonam Rathi, Mother of Radhika Rathi and Shlok Rathi

I've always had trust in the MPS International School teachers, and they've never let me down. I am happy that my daughter and son will be able to contact with someone who will pay attention to them and help them with their problems at school. My children have repeatedly expressed their appreciation for the school. Not only the professors, but also the administrative staff, are really caring about the children.
